CARING FOR THE OTHER...

William L. Stidger, a noted pastor, brilliantly described the true meaning of sympathy by sharing this story:

"I remember once seeing a crowd of children on a playground, all of them weeping. I walked over to them. A boy was lying on the ground bent over almost double and crying with pain. I asked a little girl what the trouble was, and she replied, "We all got a pain in Jimmy's stomach!". What a wondrous definition of sympathy and caring from the mouths of babes! Simply stated...sympathy is another's pain in my heart.

The above was from a message posted by M. Thomas Harned, Colonel, USAF, NSA/CSS Staff Chaplain.

I am struck by the thought that as we sit through our monthly meetings, that same basic sympathy seems to be present in the hearts of most everyone in the room. Although we may not be attending these meetings to draw sympathy from others, we appreciate the thought that no one hesitates to offer their heartfelt feelings to help others through their grieving process.

For those of you that have yet to attend a meeting or if you haven't been to one for a while, please join us when you can...we welcome you.

- to aid and support those who are suffering such a loss, regardless of race, creed or financial situation.
- to provide a library at each meeting place where members may borrow books with up-to-date information about the grief process.
- to supply the telephone numbers of other bereaved parents, siblings and grandparents who are able to offer support to other more newly bereaved families.
- to inform and educate members of the helping professions who interact with bereaved parents as to the nature and duration of parent/sibling/grandparent bereavement.

MEETING TOPICS—ANNAPOLIS

September 1: Helping Our Surviving Children

The surviving children in our families often have issues of their own. These issues can be vastly different depending on the age of the surviving child, his/her location in the order of the family, etc. Alice Baij, a bereavement counselor with Heartland Hospice and a bereaved sibling, will talk about her experience in dealing with the issues faced by the siblings of deceased children, and offer ideas on how we might help them.

October 6: Forgiveness

There's a lot of talk about forgiveness – of our self, of others, of God, etc. But what is forgiveness and how do we do it? Ruth Dennison-Tedesco, a nationally certified counselor with a master of science in pastoral counseling, will discuss these issues based on her clinical experience with bereaved parents and others.

EASTERN SHORE BEREAVED PARENTS GROUP

The Queen Anne's County Bereaved Parents Group meets on the First Wednesday of each month. The next meeting will be on Wednesday, September 7th, at 7:00 pm. All are welcome to come. Please pass the word to other bereaved parents. For more information, contact Joan Gray at 410-827-7471 or Dave Alexander at 410-544-3634 or send an email message to QueenstownGroup@sdalex.org

In Search Of: Annual Conference Leader

Pat Schultz, who has led the planning and running of our annual conference for many years, has asked that we recruit a new Conference Leader. Pat has offered to work closely with the new leader and to continue to handle many of the tasks that go into this effort. However, Pat strongly feels that for the conference to continue to grow and meet the needs of bereaved parents and families, we need to bring new leadership in with fresh perspectives and ideas.

The Conference Leader is supported by many other members who handle the myriad efforts that go into this event. The role of Conference Leader has also been performed successfully in the past by Co-Leaders.

If you are interested in exploring taking on this role, please give Pat a call on 410-255-7760 or Dave Alexander on 410-544-3634

Button Maker

Several people have asked about the great photo buttons/pins that many members wear at the meetings and functions. The tool that we use to make the pins will be available for use at the September 1 meeting. If you would like to have a button made with a photo to keep as a great memento, bring a photo that can be trimmed into a 2 1/8" diameter circle. A $2.00 / button donation would be greatly appreciated. The donation will be used by the chapter to offset expenses.

I'm Missing You

I'm missing you -
All day, every day
On a bright summer morning, or
When the moon is full,
In the golden days of fall,
As the storm clouds build and it's snowing
When the willows begin to turn green—
You are always with me,
In my mind and in my heart.
My Brother, My good friend,
I'm missing you.

A Shoshone Indian Legend explains the existence of all wildflowers:

"Wild blooms are the footprints of little children who have died and come back to gladden us."

I Know there is a Heaven

I know that there's a Heaven
For I've seen it many times
Deep within my heart somewhere
And etched into my mind.

It's a field all filled with flowers
A warm, bright summer day
Just like the one behind the house
Where we used to play.

The summer breeze caresses me
And dances softly in my hair
As I stand and look across the field
And see you standing there.

We laugh and run through the tall grass
The day turns into dusk
And Mom and Dad, they call us home
As the moon smiles upon us.

You look just like you did when you left
But you're young and strong again
And my life is so complete
Just as it was back then.

My eyes may get old and tired one day
I may have children of my own
Or it may be tomorrow
For one can never know.

But I know when my days come to an end
And I open my eyes to see
If there's a God in Heaven
You'll be waiting there for me

So You Think You're Losing Your Mind...

Because you need to go to the cemetery every day?

There may be members of your family, or some friends or neighbors, who will imply that going to the cemetery every day is morbid and perpetuates your grief. Don't you believe them. What they don't understand is that we cry and think of our dead child whether we go to the cemetery or not. It comforts some to go every day, some only feel a need to go now and then, and still others never return to the cemetery after the funeral. How often you go has nothing to do with the intensity of your grief, it is just another example of how differently we all react. You know how you feel, and that is what is really important. As you recover, you may find the need to visit your child's grave site is diminished. As this happens, don't be hesitant to make changes in your routine without guilt. Do what you need to do and don't worry how it may appear to someone else.

Because you can't look at your child's pictures yet?

This is one area where there doesn't seem to be a middle ground; either you take great comfort in having pictures surrounding you, or you don't want any on display at all. There is nothing wrong with either reaction. If pictures are a problem for you, time may be the answer. A few special pictures may then offer comfort. Trouble may arise when there are conflicting needs within a family. It is important that a parent who needs the pictures on display understands that those same pictures cause pain for another. It in no way connotes not caring or wanting to forget. It is, rather, just the opposite; the pain is there because there is so much love and caring. Try to be flexible in those areas of direct conflict.

Because you keep seeing someone who reminds you of your child?

Well, many of us do. You may even find yourself following along behind - just to make sure! The impulse may be to take them home with you. It may be all a part of denial process, but I suspect it is just because we miss them so much.

Because you find yourself thinking that it would be easier to join your child in death than to go through the pain of living without them?

We often hear this from lots of bereaved parents. They get so tired of the hurt. It frightens the parents that they are entertaining suicidal thoughts, but it must be a normal reaction for some to consider this as an alternative. Many parents, as they talk, are quick to agree that they are too responsible to really consider this as an answer. There are people who love and need them. They realize they could not purposefully put someone they love through the very hell they are seeking to escape. They are able to realize that it is not an answer.

Because you find yourself going over and over in your mind what you imagine your child felt or thought as they faced death?

This seems to be a particularly bad problem for those whose children died accidentally or as a result of suicide or murder. You may feel it is almost a compulsion at times to try and picture and imagine the thoughts and feelings your child may have had. It really is a universal problem and you may have more trouble putting this one aside. You will, as a rule, get better about it and later on it will not occupy your thoughts as much as in the beginning. It is normal. Some find it helpful to find out from anyone connected, or who may have witnessed the death, as much information as possible. Others have no desire to know the details. It is an old story, but we all do it differently and the way that fills your needs is right for you. Just know that it is normal to have it on your mind.

Because you find yourself reading the obituaries since your child died - searching for names and ages of others who have died too young?

Well, if this is a sign you are losing your mind, you have lots of company. Some are drawn to the obituaries. Is it because we seek to know that we are not alone in this seemingly endless maze? That there are others out there who know the horror of losing a child and we need to identify with them? Not everybody has this need, but many do. It may be bothersome to your spouse because they may feel it is a sign of abnormal grief and is morbid. It isn't for some. You may do it for a time but eventually most people stop having the need. Don't worry about it.

HEARTPRINTS

Whatever our hands touch---
We leave fingerprints!
On walls, on furniture,
On doorknobs, dishes, books,
As we touch we leave our identity.
Oh please where ever I go today,
Help me leave heartprints!
Heartprints of compassion
Of understanding and love.
Heartprints of kindness
and genuine concern.
May my heart touch a lonely neighbor
Or a runaway daughter,
Or an anxious mother,
Or, perhaps, a dear friend!
I shall go out today
To leave heartprints,
And if someone should say
"I felt your touch,"
May that one sense be...
YOUR LOVE Touching through ME.

"It Is So Hard To Say Goodbye To Yesterday"

How do I say goodbye to what we had?
The good times that made us laugh
Outweigh the bad.
I thought we'd get to see forever
But forever's gone away
It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday.
I don't know where this road
Is going to lead
All I know is where we've been
And what we've been through.
If we get to see tomorrow
I hope it's worth all the wait
It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday.
And I'll take with me the memories
To be my sunshine after the rain
It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday.
And I'll take with me the memories
To be my sunshine after the rain
It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday.

Lyrics- Boys II Men

WAIT

Desperately, helplessly, longingly, I cried.
Quietly, patiently, lovingly God replied.
I pled and I wept for a clue to my fate,
And the Master so gently said, "Child, you must wait!"
"Wait?', you say, wait!" my indignant reply.
"Lord, I need answers, I need to know why!
Is your hand shortened? Or have you not heard?
By FAITH I have asked, and am claiming your Word.
"My future and all to which I can relate
Hangs in the balance, and you tell me to WAIT?
I'm needing a 'yes,' a go-ahead sign,
Or even a 'no' to which I can resign.
"And Lord, you promised that if we believe
We need but to ask, and we shall receive.
And Lord, I've been asking, and this is my cry
I'm weary of asking! I need a reply!"
Then quietly, softly, I learned of my fate
As my Master replied once again, "You must wait."
So, I slumped in my chair, defeated and taut
And grumbled to God, "So, I'm waiting. . .for what?"
He seemed then to kneel and His eyes wept with mine,
And he tenderly said, "I could give you a sign.
I could shake the heavens, and darken the sun.
I could raise the dead, and cause mountains to run.
All you seek, I could give, and pleased you would be.
You would have what you want--but, you wouldn't know ME.
"You'd not know the depth of my love for each saint;
You'd not know the power that I give to the faint;
You'd not learn to see through the clouds of despair;
You'd not learn to trust just by knowing I'm there;
You'd not know the joy of resting in me
When darkness and silence were all you could see.
"You'd never experience that fullness of love
As the peace of my Spirit descends like a dove;
You'd know that I give and I save. . . (for a start),
But you'd not know the depth of the beat of my heart.
"The glow of my comfort late into the night.
The faith that I give when you walk without sight,
The depth that's beyond getting just what you asked
Of an infinite God, who makes what you have LAST.
"You'd never know, should your pain quickly flee,
What it means that 'My grace is sufficient for thee.'
Yes, your dreams for your loved ones overnight would come true,
But, oh, the loss! if I lost what I'm doing in you!
"So, be silent, my child, and in time you will see
THAT THE GREATEST OF GIFTS IS TO GET TO KNOW ME.
And though oft may my answers seem terribly late,
My wisest of answers is still but to WAIT."

Bereaved Parents of the USA

CREDO

We are the parents whose children have died. We are the grandparents who have buried grandchildren. We are the siblings whose brothers and sisters no longer walk with us through life. We come together as Bereaved Parents of the USA to provide a haven where all bereaved families can meet and share our long and arduous grief journeys. We attend monthly gatherings whenever we can and for as long as we believe necessary. We share our fears, confusion, anger, guilt, frustrations, emptiness and feelings of hopelessness so that hope can be found anew. As we accept, support, comfort, and encourage each other, we demonstrate to each other that survival is possible. Together we celebrate the lives of our children, share the joys and triumphs as well as the love that will never fade. Together we learn how little it matters where we live, what our color or our affluence is or what faith we uphold as we confront the tragedies of our children's deaths. Together, strengthened by the bonds we forge at our gatherings, we offer what we have learned to each other and to every more recently bereaved family. We are the Bereaved Parents of the USA.

We welcome you.
