Summertime and the livin' is easy.....

The lazy, hazy days of summer.....

What does summertime bring to your mind? I think of the beach with the waves softly washing ashore. Walking along with the sand between my toes. Finding "treasure" along the shoreline. The sound of the ocean is calming. The sun is warm on my face. Life seems good.

And then I realize that being at the beach is forever changed for me. The memories of times past at the beach with my family come flooding back. Lots of good memories.

I stare at the ocean and think..... The ocean is like my grief. Sometimes it seems wild and black with rage, and almost impossible to manage. Riptides, currents and storm surges.

Sometimes it's like rough waves hitting the shore, continually pounding. And sometimes the waves are smaller and are enjoyable to play in. And then sometimes it is unusually calm and I can wade in and let the cool water surround me.

So now I go to the beach to remember. And let the sun warm my heart. Let the sound of the waves calm my soul. And get sand between my toes.

CHAPTER NEWS AND NOTES

OUR CHILDREN REMEMBERED

Many of you who receive our newsletter were referred by a friend, physician, or clergy. You may have never attended a meeting. In this case, it is likely that your child's name does not appear in our monthly list of "Our Children Remembered".

This is because we require your permission to do so. If you would like your child's name added, please send a note to our post office box. List your child's name, your name(s), and the dates of your child's birth and death. Please allow 6 weeks to be sure it arrives in time for the appropriate month.

MEETING TOPICS NOTE: Each of our monthly meetings follow the same basic format. We first have a general session attended by everyone. During this first one-half hour we usually have a speaker or panel addressing a topic of interest and value to families mourning the death of a child. Following the general session, we break up into sharing groups. We always have the sharing groups, and the topics they discuss -- particularly for the newly bereaved groups -- do not necessarily focus on the program topic unless it is relevant to the members in the sharing group. We try to cover a range of topics in the programs we schedule, so that over the year we will have covered many topics which are of value to a broad range of members.

HELP WANTED/ OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE

Opportunities are available for you to help others while helping yourself. Perhaps you can now reach beyond your initial grief and help yourself heal by doing something to help our Chapter continue to reach out to others. Don't think you have to make a major commitment. There are many small services you can provide that will help ease the burden on others. Please consider the following needs, and call to chat with one of us to discuss these and other possibilities that may "fit" you.

Our Chapter needs:

Core Group Members – attend bi-monthly meetings where Chapter business and plans are discussed.

Recording Secretary – take minutes of Core Group meetings and distribute to Core Group members.

Webmaster – maintain & update our website with provided information.

Special Event Helpers – help with the October Memory Walk, December Service of Remembrance, or May Hope & Healing Conference.

October Memory Walk - Donation of a Butterfly Bush to be planted at St. Martin's of the Field after the walk is needed. Please contact Barbara Bessling at 410 608-3894

MEETING TOPICS—ANNAPOLIS

August 3: Loss of a Child Through Suicide

This program will discuss the special challenges and experiences of those who have lost a child through suicide. It will explore some of the harder parts of this kind of loss and some of the ways to deal with the tremendous range of intense feelings as well as the reactions from others.

September 7: Memorializing Your Child: Creating Memory Boxes

Many bereaved parents struggle with what to do with special mementos of their child, particularly those items that do not really fit anywhere. One way is to take special photos, cards, school papers, newspaper clippings, etc. and decoupage them onto a "memory box." The process of creating a memory box can be a healing experience. Fran Palmer and Barbara Bessling will talk about the making of memory boxes, and, during the sharing group period of the evening, will lead a workshop for those interested in making a memory box. If you plan to participate in the workshop, bring items to the meeting that you can use in constructing your memory box. These items might include, special photographs (copies, not originals), cards, school papers, newspaper clippings, pieces of fabric, and other items that will encourage you to remember your child. Bring a box which you would like to use for your memory box. The box can be large or small; it can be almost any shape or type of box; it can be a craft box, a shoe box, a cigar box etc. See next

Do whatever it is you do to get through your own grieving of your loved one...

I wanted to share something that happened on the 6 month anniversary of my Brother Gary's death. It's a simple story of how I do what I do to get by and somehow get through my grieving of Gary's death on Christmas Eve 2005.

Back in January I had received a sympathy card. This card brought me much comfort in what I was able to take from it. The poem Blue against Blue was on the front cover. It was about a blue butterfly flying higher and higher towards the blue sky and how when the butterfly is flying in front of your face you see it clear as day and when it flies away you no longer can see it but you still know it's there. I compared this to my loved one passing and not being with me as his physical self but I can still believe that he is here with me and my family in spirit and love. I've talked to Gary about this butterfly poem and I've told him that when I happen to see a butterfly I will be thinking of him. I hadn't seen one yet. Saturday, June 24, 2006 was 6 months following Gary's death and it just so happened that my 5 year old son had his 1st baseball All-Star game that day. What a coincidence, right?! When I first realized this day was here, I thought for sure it was going to bring me sadness and heartache once more, but the day turned out to be a day of great enjoyment, not only because of what this day meant to me but also because of what was about to come. While at my son's game I noticed flying in and out of the baseball field fence was a white butterfly. Of all days I could have seen a butterfly it just so happened that the first day was 6 months after Gary's death and the day my son played his 1st all-star baseball game. How special is that?! It brought tears of happiness to my eyes. That butterfly was my sign from Gary that he is truly still with us. I told my son about it, that Gary was watching him. He wanted to know how I knew and I told him I saw a butterfly and a butterfly is a gift from an angel. That was the first time in talking about Gary to my son in which he did not get upset, he was so excited about his butterfly gift.

Moments like this make it easier for me to deal with my Brother's death, though I may never understand it. I will forever continue to love him, remember him and share all our stories of times gone by.

So do whatever you do to get through, it makes a world of difference! Don't worry about wrongs or rights, because as I've learned your own grieving process is just that, nothing anyone can say is the right or wrong way of getting through and going on.

Gary, you are always with me! Love, your Sister

CAMP NABE

August 11-13, 2006

A weekend camp for children ages 6 to 13 who are grieving the death of a loved one.

Camp Nabe (pronounced nah-bee) is the Korean word for butterfly. This metaphor is used to illustrate the possible transformation children experience through their grieving process: In time from the darkness and isolation of a cocoon, children, like the caterpillar, emerge as a beautiful butterfly, forever changed and unexpectedly strengthened by the grief experience.

A Celestial Happy 27th, Cortney
– this is in memory of your 16 years of life!!

Sometimes
(by Kirsten Hansen)

Sometimes something clicks
And with a tear
Remembrance of the pain
And the loneliness
Flood the heart.

Sometimes something clicks
And with a smile
Remembrance of the love
And the laughter
Flood the senses.

And there are times
Where nothing clicks at all
And a voice echoes
Through the emptiness and numbness
Never finding the person
Who used to fill that space.

And sometimes
The most special times of all
A feeling ripples through your Body, heart, and soul
That tells you
That person never left you
And she's right there with you
Through it all.

I hope to feel one of those ripples on your birthday.
I love you so.

THE GIFT

“...Maybe some people just aren't meant to be in our lives forever. Maybe some people are just passing through...maybe they get it all done faster than the rest of us. They don't need to stick around for a hundred years to get it all right. They get it down real quick...it's like...it's like some people just come through our lives to bring us something, a gift, a blessing, a lesson we need to learn, and that's why they're here. She taught you something, I'll bet, about live, and giving, and caring so much about someone ...that was her gift to you. She taught you all that and then she left. Maybe she just didn't need to stay longer than that. She gave you the gift, and then she was free to move on... she was a special soul... You'll have that gift forever.”

By Danielle Steel
(an excerpt from her book,
THE GIFT)

PROMISE The colors of life change as we go through grief. We begin black and white, then gray settles over us seeping into our pores, surrounding us, then slowly the colors change, we may not even be aware of their changing till one day we see a rainbow and know it was meant for us...

A Walk on the Beach

Today I walked on the beach
The sun was shining
It felt warm on my face and chest
The water was cool on my feet
The waves glistened
The ocean breeze felt fine
A sand devil sprang up on the shore
Twisting, turning, jumping almost running along
It reminded me of you
The gulls cried
I cried too
I miss you Baby!

The Condo

509 East Breakaway
The perfect ocean getaway
Five floors up
A balcony to sit on
And drink ice tea from
And count waves from

The boys were here this weekend
It was a joy to spend some time
Not boys anymore
They've grown to men
But you're still our baby
It will always be so
15 forever and ever so it goes

With Chris and Jon
The condo was too small
Bumping into each other
With the occasional sharp word

Three men and your mom
It was a tight fit
But now that they're gone
There is too much space
The condo's too big for her, me and you.

Dawn at the Shore

The sand
The waves
The ocean
The mist
The sky
All running together
No beginning
No end
Emptiness to infinity
Yet the promise of a new day

Since you've been gone
This is the view from my soul

The Boardwalk

The beach
The boardwalk
The lights
The crowds
The excitement
The rides
The Kite Loft
How you loved it
You were 7 or 8
That year we lost you
On the boardwalk
The terror
The fear of your being gone
It was unbearable

It happened again

Bereaved Parents of the USA

CREDO

We are the parents whose children have died. We are the grandparents who have buried grandchildren. We are the siblings whose brothers and sisters no longer walk with us through life. We come together as Bereaved Parents of the USA to provide a haven where all bereaved families can meet and share our long and arduous grief journeys. We attend monthly gatherings whenever we can and for as long as we believe necessary. We share our fears, confusion, anger, guilt, frustrations, emptiness and feelings of hopelessness so that hope can be found anew. As we accept, support, comfort, and encourage each other, we demonstrate to each other that survival is possible. Together we celebrate the lives of our children, share the joys and triumphs as well as the love that will never fade. Together we learn how little it matters where we live, what our color or our affluence is or what faith we uphold as we confront the tragedies of our children's deaths. Together, strengthened by the bonds we forge at our gatherings, we offer what we have learned to each other and to every more recently bereaved family. We are the Bereaved Parents of the USA.

We welcome you.
